MUTUAL RESERVE PAID THOUSANDS TO WOMAN

Widow of Former President Harper
Has Drawn $134,000 and Is Still Receiving Money—Mc-Call Fights to Prevent Publicity.

New York, December 7.—Attention was directed to the possibility of criminal action growing out of the investigation of life insurance methods by a visit paid by District Attorney Jerome to the legislative committee while it was holding its hearing in the city hall today. Mr. Jerome said that he wanted to find out when he could get possession of a copy of the report of the committee. Chairman Armstrong has already said that he hopes to have it ready for the legislature when it meets next January.

Counsel for Thomas F. Ryan, who bought the James H. Hyde stock of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, conferred with Charles E. Hughes, counsel for the investigating committee, today, and said afterwards that Mr. Ryan is holding himself in readiness to testify before the committee.

Widow Well Paid.
One of the points brought out by Mr. Hughes in today's hearing was the fact that the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company had paid $134,000 to the widow of Edward B. Harper, the former president of the company, since Mr. Harper's death in 1895. The money is derived from commissions which former President Harper drew on all business written by the company. His widow, who has since remarried, continues to receive the commissions.

Incident to this inquiry, Mr. Hughes discovered an instance in which $8,000 had been paid to President Barnham, of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, in 1896, concerning which Vice President G. D. Eldridge, of that company, testified that he knew nothing. The bookkeeper who made the payment from a contingent fund said he did not know what it was paid for.

The affairs of the Security Mutual Life Insurance Company of Birmingham, N. Y., again were under investigation today. One of the interesting facts brought out was the statement of President Turner, of that company, that he had employed a few years ago D. H. Waefer, one of the clerks in the office of the superintendent of insurance at Albany, to act as consulting attorney of the company at $1,000 a year.

For all Mr. Turner knew, he said, the arrangement is still in force.

McCall Fights Publicity.
New York, December 7.—Clarence H. Verner applied to Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum, yesterday, for a mandamus directing John A. McCall, as president of the New York Life Insurance Company, to furnish him with a complete list of the policy holders supplemented by their addresses and the amount of their policies. The object of Verner's move is to obtain proxies to be used at the election of trustees next April. His counsel submitted a statement, declaring that there exists sufficient dissatisfaction among the policy holders to warrant the election of new trustees and other officers.

Counsel representing Mr. McCall opposed the application strenuously and submitted an affidavit by McCall, in which Verner's motives are attacked.

Mr. McCall in his affidavit says that the name and address of a policy holder are considered confidential matters and that if a list was given to Mr. Verner he might use it to the company's disadvantage and his own personal profit. Decision was withheld.

Senator Tillman Asks Question and Calls on Comptroller to Answer.

INSURANCE SCANDALS DENOUNCED BY TILLMAN

And the South Carolinian Says He Wants the Light Turned On Everywhere—Tillman Spoke in Characteristic Fashion.

Washington, December 7.—The subject of campaign contributions by insurance companies occupied the major portion of the time of the senate today. It came up in connection with Mr. Tillman's resolution calling for an investigation of national bank aid in politics, and was exploited by the South Carolina senator in a speech of some length. It was couched in characteristic language and attracted considerable attention. The resolutions, directing the secretary of the treasury to report whether the reports of the national bank examiners show that the banks have made campaign contributions in recent years, was adopted at the close of Mr. Tillman's remarks.

Bribery and Corruption.
Outlining his reasons for the inquiry, Mr. Tillman called attention to the recommendation made by the president in his annual messages of 1904 and 1905 for the enactment of a law for protection against bribery and corruption in connection with elections. He quoted with especial emphasis the president's remarks concerning campaign contributions by corporations. "Our chief executive has taken a very progressive stand to secure purity in elections," he said, and added: "Every good American will say 'well done,' and look for progress along that line."

He also quoted statements by Secretary Root and Perry Belmont, of New York, of the same tenor as the president's remarks, saying that he would be impartial as between political parties.

He concluded that the secretary might not have the facts wanted, but he thought he ought to have. Incidentally, Mr. Tillman said that he had been informed that the comptroller of the currency has been investigating the subject of bank contributions with the view of instituting legal proceedings.

Before Mr. Tillman had proceeded far, Mr. Gallinger, who had yesterday objected to the consideration of the resolution at that time, said that he had done so only for the purpose of inspecting it; that he had done so, and being entirely satisfied as to its propriety, would support the resolution.

Money for Republicans.
Continuing, Mr. Tillman said that the comptroller has means of getting information which others have not, and added that if he would "push in his probe he can make discoveries that are worth while."

He added that his reasons for requesting the information are founded in the revelations concerning the insurance companies. "It has been shown by the testimony, or confession of a member of the insurance companies, and Mr. Hale interrupted to say that he agreed with Mr. Tillman on that point.

Mr. Bailey asked whether the insurance company contributions to the national republican campaign had been returned to the donor.

He Wants Dividends.
"I understand," said Mr. Tillman, "that the president was going to have Mr. Cortelyou return them. But I do not know whether he has done so. I do not know that I haven't got my share."

Senator Spooner: "Is yours a life policy?"

Mr. Tillman: "It is."

Mr. Spooner: "Then it is not yet time to cash on it?"

Mr. Tillman replied that it was dividends and not the policy itself that he wanted paid.

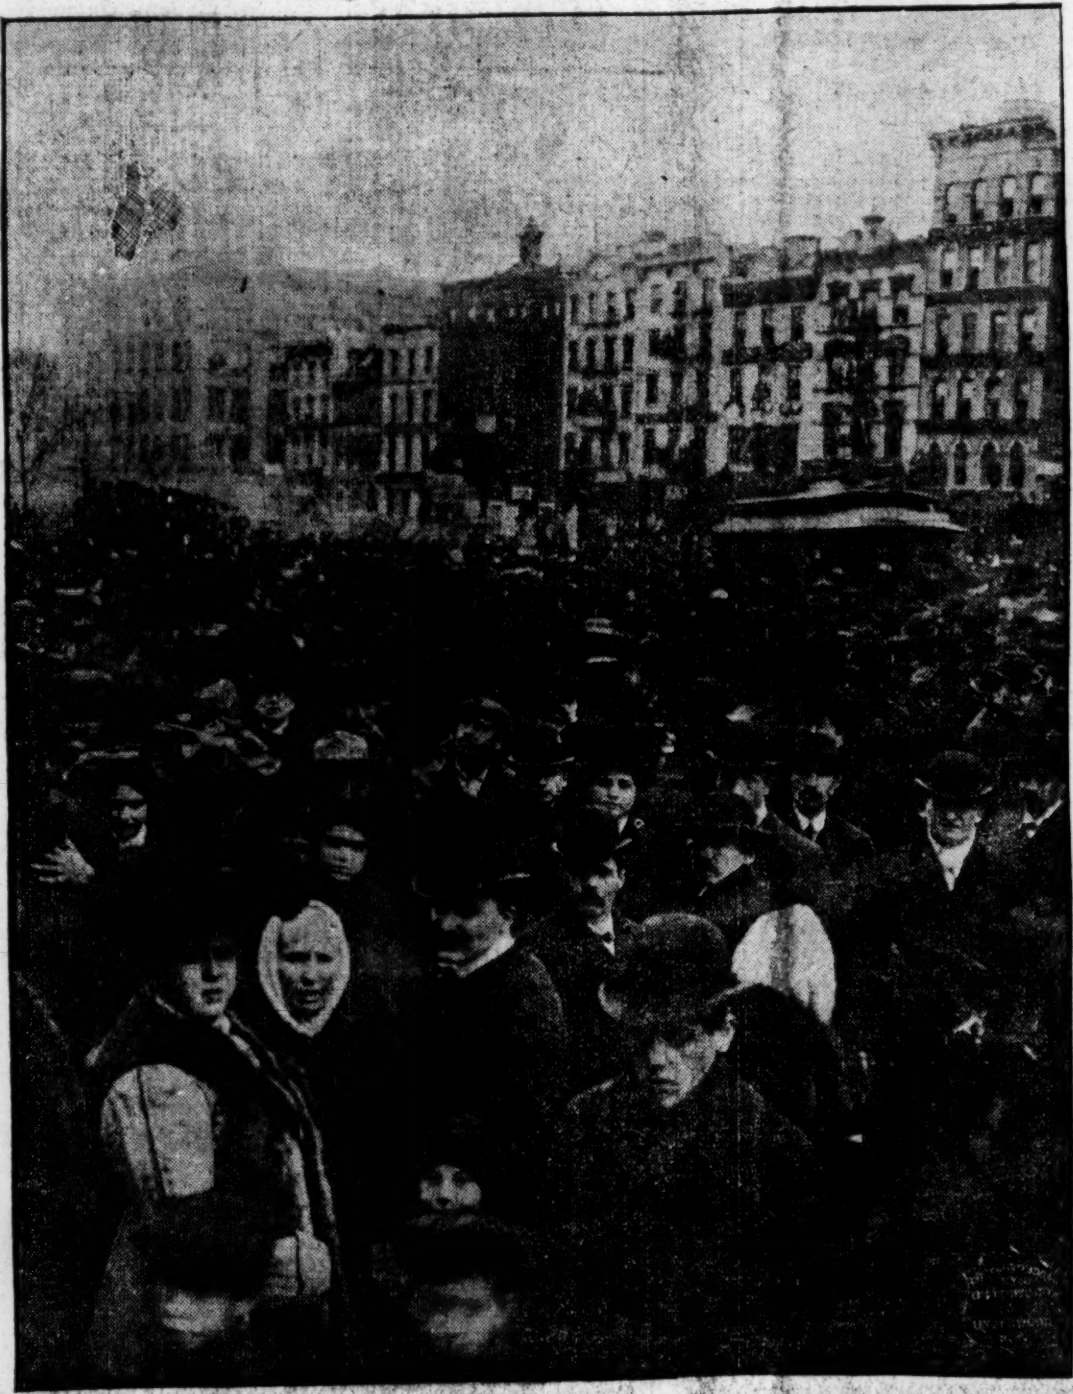

"These," he said, "were pitifully small, while McCurdy has been getting fat without doing anything."

Mr. Bailey said he had not supposed that the president would make a second recommendation on the subject of punishing campaign contributors until the money had been returned.

"Ah, Mr. President," responded Mr. Tillman, "all the Turveydrops and Pecksniffs are not dead yet, although I would not for a moment be understood as comparing our strenuous occupant of the white house with those characters. What we want is results, and these we do not seem to have procured so far."

Quoting the testimony of Senator Platt before the New York committee, Mr. Tillman congratulated that senator upon his straightforwardness. "There was no dodging," he said, "and I do not believe that a dollar of the money ever Civic Federation.

New York, December 7.—The National Civic Federation today elected the following officers to serve on its immigration committee:

President, Seth Low, of New York; vice president, John H. Holliday, of Indiana; Governor W. D. Jelks, of Alabama; President of Senate West, of Georgia; Anthony Higgins, of Delaware; Warren S. Stone, of Ohio; Frederick N. Judson, of Missouri.

Secretaries—Professor H. A. Garfield, of New Jersey; H. W. Farnum, of Connecticut; and George Parsons, of Illinois.

If Carnegie Owned America.
Andrew Carnegie said today that if he owned America, he would give a premium to immigrants coming here. Mr. Carnegie said:

"Our country has more than one serious problem, but immigration is not among them. We have solved the question in the present by the somewhat too drastic law that we have enacted. It is a problem for us. It is the problem of the poor unfortunate countries from which we are drawing the best blood."

Not Purity of Blood.
"If I owned America and was running it, as a business operation I would not only look for that man, but I would give men of that kind a premium to come here and consider it the best bargain I had ever made in my life. Taking the value of a man, woman or child in this republic as low as a slave and that was an average of about $1,000 fifty years ago, and you are getting 400,000 a year which means $400,000,000 cash value. Furthermore, every man who comes here is a consumer, and 90 per cent of all the earnings of even the most saving goes to employ other labor of some kind."

"It is not purity of blood you want, it is the mingling of different bloods that makes the American."

ernor Shows Clemency.

LAST SACRAMENT GIVEN
TO THE DOOMED WOMAN

Governor Personally Opposed to Capital Punishment, but He Says
It Is the Law of State and Must Be Executed.

Montpelier, Vt., December 7.—A final attempt to prolong the life of Mrs. Mary Rogers, whose execution has been set for tomorrow, will be made early in the morning. Governor Charles J. Bell, who has been in the west, left Montreal tonight for White River Junction, where he has arranged to remain tomorrow in order to be within easy reach of the state officials and attorneys. E. B. Flynn, of Springfield, Vt., one of the lawyers who has been working in behalf of the condemned woman for more than a year, left Montpelier tonight for St. Johns, Quebec, where he expects to intercept the governor before midnight to talk over the situation and inform the governor of the latest steps being taken to have Mrs. Rogers reprieved.

Plea for Reprieve.
Charles A. McCarthy, of Hoosic Falls, N. Y., the home of Mrs. Rogers' relatives, reached this city tonight and will journey to White River Junction for the purpose of presenting a number of affidavits to Governor Bell relating largely to the reported presence of insanity in Mrs. Rogers' family, and form the basis of the only plea for a reprieve which would enable the lawyers to take the case before the supreme court of the state once more on the ground of newly discovered evidence.

Those who have followed the ins and outs of the celebrated case expressed little hope tonight that Governor Bell would alter his previous decision not to grant another reprieve. Personally, the governor is opposed to capital punishment, but he has taken the stand that the existing law must be carried out so long as it remains on the statute books.

Gainesville, Ga., December 7.—(Special.) The farmers of this section are rejoicing over the high price cotton reached upon the publication of the government report. There is not a great deal of cotton left in this section, most of it already having been put on the market. The county hereabouts is in prosperous condition, the farmers having settled their obligations and have money left for next year's work.

SOLDIERS IN REVOLT AND ALL THE BANKS ARE BEING LOOTED

Such News As Comes Indicates That Long-Predicted Break-Up Has Come.

FRENZIED PEOPLE RUSH ON GOVERNMENT BANKS

Millions Withdrawn and Bankruptcy Threatens the Government—Soldiers Have Sworn Not To Use Their Weapons on the People.

St. Petersburg, December 6, via Eydtukhnen, East Prussia, December 7.—Public confidence in the government's ability to weather the growing storm is waning fast. Premier Witte seems powerless to cope with the new elements of danger which the revolution is raising on every hand. New mutinies among the troops are constantly reported and the lawlessness in the country is increasing.

Gold Payments To Be Suspended.
The immediate danger confronting the government is a concerted attack on the country's credit. The public fear that the government can be forced to suspend gold payments increases daily. This would be the crowning achievement of the revolutionists who are satisfied with the attending financial crash the whole house would come tumbling down. The chances of driving the government into bankruptcy they profess to believe would be materially increased if the confidence of the foreign holders of Russian obligations was undermined, and the news that the French investors, who foreign indebtedness, were unloading, was received with jubilation by the revolutionists.

Veritable Panic.
At the same time, it created a veritable panic on the bourse, imperial 4s falling to 74, 5s to 94 1-2, and the government lotteries to 295. Banking and industrial shares went down with a rush. Pullout going from 93 to 86, and iron shares, like Kolomo and Moscow, which, a month ago, were quoted at 450, closing at 360. The savings' bank was subjected to a run, and at the state bank a long line of nervous men and women waited for hours to exchange paper money for gold. The bank officials did not attempt to dissuade them, and exchanged rolls of gold for bills as fast as the latter were presented.

Both the runs on the banks and the demand for foreign exchange were accelerated by circulars which the strikers and revolutionary organizations are spreading broadcast.

Millions Withdrawn.
At the ministry of finance it is estimated that about $50,000,000 has thus far been withdrawn from the state bank. The balance of gold in the treasury and abroad now stands at $586,500,000, and the outstanding paper totals $553,500,000, leaving the government a margin of legal issuable paper of about 45,000,000.

The government perfectly understands the character of the assault on its credit. At the ministry of finance the Associated Press was authoritatively informed that the situation of the government has not greatly changed financially or economically.

"All depends," continued the official, "on political developments. If the government possessed thrice its present reserve, it would not suffice to prevent the present, which like panics must run its course. But we have ample resources to meet our obligations and the present demands. It is nonsense to talk of the government defaulting the January coupons and of its inability to take up the short term treasury bonds sold to the Mendelssohns, which are due in February. Much has been made of the possible inability of the government to collect taxes. As a matter of fact, the entire direct taxation in the cities of 400 million is $67,700,000, and the tax of industries $33,500,000. If both were altogether lost, it would be less than one-tenth of Russia's total income."

Soldiers Are Mutinous.
At Kharkoff 5,000 soldiers have agreed not to fire on the people and at Rostoff the Third Grenadier artillery, consisting of 400 men, has held a meeting and formulated demands. Similar action, it is reported, has been taken by the military engineers at Odessa and by troops in several places in the Baltic province. In Livonia is due to agrarian troubles. Large bands of peasants are looting and pillaging. It is reported that Dorpat is in flames.

MILLIONAIRE HERMIT BURNED TO DEATH.
WARSAN, N. Y., December 7.—James Glottet, the hermit banker of Hermit, age, Wyoming county, was burned to death today in his house, which was burned to the ground. He was estimated to be worth a million dollars. He was a graduate of Yale college in the class of 1850. It is believed the fire caught from an overheated stove.

by His Treatment of Peasants.

HE CORRALLED PEOPLE AND THEN LASHED THEM

Peasants Were Knouted by Relays of Cossacks and Were Then Compelled in Turn To Use

Another.

St. Petersburg, December 6, Morning, via Eydtukhnen, East Prussia, December 7.—The assassination of Lieutenant General Sakharoff, former minister of war, who was shot in the governor's palace at Saratoff, December 5, was provoked by the horrible manner in which Sakharoff had been oppressing the people.

He corralled peasants with Cossacks and had them beaten with the soldiers' whips. In so doing, Sakharoff pursued the system adopted by Prince John Obolensky, former governor general of Finland, in suppressing the agrarians in the vicinity of Kharkoff several years ago, when the prince caused the peasants to be whipped by relays of Cossacks and compelled them in turn to beat their comrades.

The assassin of Sakharoff has not been identified. When arrested, the woman who committed the crime declared she had executed a decree of the terror section of the social-revolutionists.

The following is a description of Sakharoff's arrival at Hovonsichina, one of the villages of the province of Saratoff:

"He came with Cossacks and artillery. The peasants were surrounded by Cossacks, and Sakharoff addressed them, demanding that they surrender their leaders. The village elder replied, but gave the general no information. The elder was immediately beaten until he lost consciousness."

"Sakharoff then retired to the court house, leaving the peasants at the mercy of the Cossacks, most of whom were drunk, and they began torturing the peasants, pulling out their hair and beads, and even tearing pieces of flesh from their faces. Thirty-three peasants were thus maltreated."

A GOEBEL WITNESS IS SHOT.
Charles Ehler, Once of Alaska, Is Wounded in California.
Bakersfield, Cal., December 7.—Charles E. Ehler, who was some years ago said to have been an important witness in the trial arising out of the killing of Governor Goebel, in Kentucky, and who has been a merchant at Nome, Alaska; Fort Worth and Camp McKinley, was shot in the breast by an unknown assailant this morning in front of the Southern hotel.

He positively refused to disclose the identity of the would-be assassin. The bullet struck Ehler directly over the heart, was deflected by a rib and was removed from the left side.

The attending physician says that Ehler will recover unless blood poisoning sets in.

EVOLUTION HAS MADE WHITE RACE SUPERIOR

WINDER, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—The North Georgia conference of the A. M. E. church convened here yesterday. Bishop H. M. Turner presiding. Rev. W. B. Lawrence, elected secretary and Rev. C. L. Williams, assistant. Rev. J. H. Hall, presiding elder of the Marietta district, preached the annual sermon.

Bishop Turner sprang somewhat of a surprise on delivering his annual address as follows: "I notice through the press of the country a few fragmentary statements of my address before the Macon Georgia conference on 'Evolution,' and these disconnected remarks have misled some of the ministers of my district and have created some sensation as to my orthodoxy. I wish to say I have read the Bible in several of the languages and accept it from Genesis to Revelation, but do not accept the interpretation of every one or several persons, be they ministers of the gospel, critics or speculators. I did say that progress was the order of nature and that evolution was God's method of systematizing and beautifying all creation, and that the present harmonies of nature were the result of evolution. Every geological student will attest this declaration. All the luscious fruits that are used were once bitter or sour. Dr. Swing, of Chicago, believed that at one time the earth was no larger than a hen's egg, but a fall of water dust makes it now 25,000 miles in circumference and the world is growing daily. The white man is superior to the black man just in proportion as circumstances have evolved him. Evolution has made the white man the giant race of the world.

"The negro race will never measure arms with him until he finds his own nation and commences to evolve that which now lies dormant in him. This is the basis upon which I have advocated African emigration. Everything, man, trees, and the world itself, is in a state of evolution, and to me it is a mystery that so-called intelligent people cannot see it. I do not believe that Isaac Newton, Shakespeare or Frederick Douglass came from a tadpole, but that God evolved man from what would be looked upon now as a piece of monstrosity. And further, I believe if he is the offspring of protoplasm that the protoplasm was man in prospect, in other words, that he was protoplasmic man, and that he was created to bear the ultimate image of God."

NATIONAL BANKS AND CAMPAIGNS

stuck to his fingers." He added his conviction, however, that the contributions had had the effect of controlling the New York legislature in the interest of the insurance companies.

Charges by Parker.
Mr. Tillman quoted the charges made by Judge Parker in the last campaign connecting the republican campaign contributions with the fact that Chairman Cortelyou had recently retired from the office of secretary of the department of commerce. He also quoted the president's reply, which he said was "red hot," and added that not a dollar had been needed to elect the president. Notwithstanding this fact, he said, that it had been shown that $1,000,000 had been contributed for that purpose, that is, if the newspaper men may be believed. "And," he added, "they are about as reliable as any other class. They will lie sometimes as we do, and occasionally they get orders that such and such a man shall be fly-blown. Then they proceed to plant the microbes, but on the whole they may be depended upon." He also made reference to the charge that large expenditures had been made by the democrats in the Cleveland campaign, saying it would have been fortunate for the democratic party if Mr. Cleveland had never been elected. He closed with an appeal for a thorough investigation, saying that such a course was necessary to restore the confidence of the public.

PANAMA CANAL GIVEN MILLIONS

House Votes $11,000,000 Toward Its Construction.

Amount Was a Compromise Between $16,500,000, Carried in Bill, and Estimate of $6,000,000, Offered by Williams—Bill Somewhat Amended.

Washington, December 7.—An appropriation of $11,000,000 was voted today toward the construction of the Panama canal. The amount was a compromise between the $16,500,000 carried in the bill under consideration and an estimate of something over $6,000,000 recommended by Mr. Williams, the democratic leader, to carry on the work until the middle of January.

Mr. Hepburn, in charge of the bill, suggested that something over $11,000,000 would carry on the work under way until March. There was no intention manifest to delay the work, the only argument for cutting down the original estimate being that closer scrutiny might be had of the estimate.

Bill Amended.
The bill was amended in accordance with suggestions by Mr. Mann of Illinois, directing the president to require annual reports from canal construction officers covering all detail of the work; requiring such employees to give Congress any information they may desire, and restricting all expenditures to money appropriated by Congress and to that received by the operation of the property of the Panama railroad. Otherwise the bill was not amended, and contains, besides the appropriation, a provision removing a tax disability against the proposed bonds to be issued for the construction of the canal, thus placing the bonds on a footing with other government bonds.

The bond provision in the bill was a point of attack today. Mr. Williams offered several unsuccessful amendments, all seeking to abandon the policy of issuing bonds for the canal work on the ground that there is sufficient available funds in the treasury to meet all needed demands for the canal work.

The Bond Feature.
Mr. Overstreet did not succeed in amending the bill so that the $10,000,000 already expended in canal construction might be refunded to the treasury from the sale of the canal bonds. The bond policy of the two parties occasioned the feature of the debate and resulted in limited political discussion.

Secretary Taft, accompanied by the auditor and parks agent of the canal commission, came to the capitol and remained available to give any information that might be desired for the floor, but they were not called upon.

With the bill out of the way and the committee appointed to begin work on the several thousand measures that have been introduced since the house began, the house adjourned until Monday.

Mrs. Young May Sue Coates for Good Sum of Money.

Constitution Bureau, 467 Second Street, Macon, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—The bond policy of the two parties occasioned the feature of the debate and resulted in limited political discussion.

During her trial Mrs. Young was charged with having impersonated Mrs. Mary Hinson, in an attempt to fraudulently take out a policy with the New York Life and Co. Coates swore that she had paid him the money.

On the strength of Coates' testimony, Mrs. Young now wants the money. Coates admits that the money does not belong to the New York Life, but he doesn't know what to do with it. It was given to him by a woman calling herself Mrs. Mary Hinson, and he says that woman was Mrs. Young. The jury evidently believed Mrs. Young when she denied this, and the affair is in a tangle.

Attorney Claude Eates, who is representing Mrs. Young, says that as long as Coates says the money was paid him by Mrs. Young she is entitled to it.

WILL ERECT THE MONUMENT.

Gainesville Women Will Unveil Shaft to Confederates.

Gainesville, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—At a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Longstreet chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, held at the residence of the president, Mrs. C. C. Sanders, on motion of Mrs. Longstreet the chapter voted almost unanimously to erect the confederate monument on which they have been at work for some time, and unveil it on next Memorial day.

The funds now in hand are more than sufficient for a monument that in beauty and dignity will worthily commemorate the valorous deeds of the men who fought and lost some forty years ago.

And on next Memorial day, as a testimonial of their love and remembrance, the patriotic daughters of Longstreet chapter will give to the care and keeping of the city of Gainesville a splendid memorial to the south's defenders.

In its finished beauty and splendid dignity, the memorial to the confederate heroes to be erected on the public squares in Gainesville will stand until it crumbles to dust as a monument to the patriotism, devotion and untiring labors of Mrs. C. C. Sanders, president of Longstreet chapter, and Mrs. J. C. Dorsey, treasurer of the chapter and chairwoman of the building committee. These noble women have been foremost in the work which is at last to be crowned with the splendor of success.

It is understood that as soon as the account is unveiled, the chapter will take up the work of erecting a memorial to the great general whose grave at Alva Vista cemetery gives Gainesville its world-wide historic interest.

TO DEEPEN HARBOR AT APALACHICOLA

Columbus, Bainbridge and Apalachicola Working Together.

Hearing Will Be Had Before Government Board of Engineers at Apalachicola in Regard To Perfecting Deep Water Anchorage.

Columbus, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)

At a meeting of the Columbus board of trade tonight at which representatives of Albany, Bainbridge and Apalachicola were present and cooperated fully with the people of this city, arrangements were made for a full representation of the commercial interests of the Chattahoochee, Flint and Apalachicola rivers at a hearing to be had before the government board of engineers at Apalachicola, Fla., December 12, on the subject of deepening the harbor at that point. Enthusiastic talks were made tonight by Mayor L. H. Chippell, G. Gunby Jordan, William B. Slade, F. B. Jordan and others, in which the great benefit that Columbus would derive from the improvement of the harbor at the mouth of the Chattahoochee river was stressed. The government board of engineers will be given figures regarding the commerce of this river system. The delegation that will represent Columbus at the hearing is composed of J. Ralston Cargill, William B. Slade, George B. Whiteside and Dan Joseph.

Two schemes of improving Apalachicola harbor are proposed—one the opening of West Pass and the other the opening of East Pass. The improvement of West Pass is favored by Columbus, as that would enable ocean-going vessels to go up to the Apalachicola wharf and unload direct on river steamers coming to Columbus.

After 53 Years They Meet.

Columbus, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—Colonel Robert N. Howard, of Columbus, and Judge William Dent, of Newnan, Ga., accidentally met on the streets of this city yesterday. They were classmates at a Marietta school in 1853 and had not seen each other in fifty-two years. They discovered each other's identity as a result of a casual conversation regarding old times in Columbus. Judge Dent is United States Commissioner at Newnan, and "Uncle Bob" Howard is an unconstructed rebel of the genuine variety.

WOMAN TO HANG IN VERMONT TODAY

signatures in favor of saving the life of the condemned woman, arrived here tonight and left for Montpelier Junction to board the train which carries the governor.

The execution of Mrs. Rogers is set for tomorrow afternoon between 1 and 2 o'clock, and all arrangements have been made for it at the state prison at Windsor.

Sacrament for the Woman.

Windsor, Vt., December 7.—With the appointed time of her execution not twenty-four hours distant, Mrs. Mary M. Rogers spent today in her cell at the state prison apparently in utter indifference as to the issue which she is to face tomorrow. Rev. C. Delaney, the Roman Catholic priest of Burlington, who has attended her while she has been in prison, administered the sacrament of the holy communion to the woman this morning.

Ten or more deputy sheriffs had arrived at the prison today in connection with the plans for tomorrow's execution. During the afternoon the gallows was erected and tested. The execution is expected to take place about 1 p. m.

Several of the official witnesses have arrived and others will be here in the morning. Sheriffs from out of the county will be present as a military guard.

Woman Will Not Collapse.

Deputy Sheriff A. McAuley, of Windsor, was spring the trap, as originally planned.

It is not thought that Mrs. Rogers will collapse, for her apparent indifference to her fate was marked today as it has been ever since she was imprisoned.

During the afternoon Sheriff Peck formally read the death warrant to Mrs. Rogers. She listened without emotion, then she took place about 1 p. m. The death warrant had been read to her. Father Delaney, Mrs. Rogers' religious advisor, says that Mrs. Rogers is still firm and in control of her feelings.

MONUMENT MARKS WHERE THEY DIED GIVING TROUBLE

Unveiling of Shaft Erected By Pennsylvania at Andersonville.
To Be Unsatisfactory.

Governor Pennypacker and Party Take Part in the Ceremonies at Andersonville in Honor of Pennsylvanians Who Died in Prison.

Andersonville, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—In the presence of nearly 500 men who were prisoners at Camp Sumter, the monument erected in the Andersonville prison park to the dead of Pennsylvania
was dedicated today by Governor Samuel W. Pennypacker, and was by him formally handed over to the United States government, represented by General E.
A. Carman, chairman of the Chickamauga and Chattanooga national military park commission.

Early this morning Governor Pennypacker
and staff were tendered a reception
at the Windsor hotel, at Andersonville.
An address of welcome was made by Assistant Secretary of War, and Governor Pennypacker, in a felicitous response, declared Georgia today, more than ever before, has earned and deserves the title of the Empire State of the South. He expressed amazement and unbounded admiration for the splendid spirit of aggressiveness now evidenced by the southern people.

A large number of American people attended the ceremony, the Central of Georgia railroad furnishing free transportation on a special train for all who wished to come from that city. The weather could not have been finer and the Pennsylvanians and visiting Georgians thoroughly enjoyed the occasion. Among the visitors were many Pennsylvania veterans and a number of former Confederate soldiers, whom they met here. The best of feeling prevailed.

fantry band.

The monument was designed by C. J.
Clark, of the firm of Miller & Clark, of America, without the aid of a sculptor.
The statue was cast in Chicago. The monument is principally of bronze, and stands a base course 20 feet square.
The structure stands, all told, 35 feet
high, surmounted by a bronze statue 8 feet in height, representing a prisoner who was confined in the stockade during the war.

The Party at Andersonville.
America, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)— Governor Pennypacker and party of prominent Pennsylvanians spent this morning in America as guests of the city, and the visit was one of much pleasure.
A public reception was held at the Hotel Windsor, after which the party of nearly one hundred were taken by citizens on a carriage drive of an hour.

special train for Andersonville cemetery,
where the exercises incident to the dedication of the Pennsylvania state monument were held this afternoon. Probably 2,000 people, among them 500 citizens of Pennsylvania, who reached Andersonville last night, witnessed the exercises.

Director North Says That Speculation
in the Staple Has Not Been Reduced—Better Method Will Now Probably Be Sought.

By Jos. Ohl.
Washington, December 7.—(Special.)—
The position of the director of census
with reference to the cotton statistics
has been made plain in a letter written by that official to Representative Webb, of North Carolina. Among the other things Director North says he recognizes as fully as anybody the demoralizing and unfortunate effect of reports which can change the price of cotton as much as 5¢ per bale, up or down, within a few minutes.

"As I understand it," he says, "the chief purpose of the legislation which established the census cotton ginning reports was to reduce speculation in the staple to a minimum and to have a steadying effect upon the market during the cotton season and the change
from monthly to semi-monthly reports was expected to be helpful toward this end. It must now be admitted that such has not been the effect."

The director goes on to say that if there is any method of promulgating the reports whereby the purpose outlined can be more effectively attained, he will gladly adopt it. A year ago the census office attempted to accomplish that purpose by issuing a monthly report in instalments, as fast as returns came in from agents, and in such way that information reached the public gradually every other day for a week. This market had a chance to adjust itself without violent or sudden changes, and all risks
of final report were avoided.

Good To Adopt New Method.
"We abandoned this method at the close of last season," says Mr. North.
"In response to urgent demands of all
the cotton exchanges of the country,
whose members insisted that incomplete returns were misleading, confusing and bewildering. If it is the judgment of the representatives of the planting and manufacturing interests that it would be beneficial for the census office to return to that method, I shall be very glad to do so, notwithstanding the opposition of the cotton exchanges. I believe it would accomplish a very large measure, at least, the purpose referred to."

An entire change in the methods of procuring cotton information and of making reports and estimates upon the crop will be sought about if the recommendations made to Secretary Wilson by Colonel Livingston are adopted.
Colonel Livingston has taken an active part in the agitation for reform in the statistical bureau of the department of agriculture, and in response to the request of Secretary Wilson has suggested a plan which he thinks will greatly simplify the work of the bureau.

He believes the work of gathering statistics should be placed upon a pay basis. Under the present system the information received by the department
comes almost entirely from volunteer reporters, many thousands of whom are scattered throughout the cotton belt sending in information and estimates. Former Chief Statistician John Hyde believed this the more practical method, but Colonel Livingston, who is himself a large cotton grower, believes that under system of paid reporters the work would not only be greatly simplified, but that results would be more satisfactory.

Should Make Actual Tests.
Congressman Livingston proposes that the county reporter or agent should be required to make tests of production per acre from what he considers typical fields from October 1 to November 15,
so as to enable the department to make a fair and accurate estimate of the total crop. The yield per acre should be determined by this means before an estimate is given out as to the total crop
in December.

The objections generally advanced against a system of paid reporters have been based principally on the score of expense. Colonel Livingston would place upon these agents of the department of agriculture the work of gathering the reports now gathered through the census bureau, at an approximate cost of $250,000 per year. He estimates that the total cost of a paid system, such as he proposes, would be much less than that sum. Fewer clerks would be required in the department's bureau of statistics than are now required to handle the thousands of reports that come from the department's volunteer reporters. The whole method of compiling reports and estimates could, he thinks, be greatly simplified and in a way that would inspire confidence on the part of cotton growers and cotton operators. To insure this in even higher degree he would have the greatest publicity given
the reports of these county agents.

Accuracy the Chief Consideration.
His plan eliminates state agents and field traveling agents, the board of consolidation and a large number of clerks in the bureau of statistics. He believes it would insure accurate acreage reports, intelligent reports on condition, actual abandoned acreage and actual production per average acre, and even if it should cost a trifle more it would set at rest speculation and uncertainty—the end most desired by all legiti-mate interests.

GIVE YOUR STOMACH A NICE VACATION.
Don't Do It By Starving It Either—
Let a Substitute Do the Work.

The old adage, "All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," applies just as much to the stomach, one of the most important organs of the human system, as it does to the man himself.

If your stomach is worn out and rebels against doing its share of the work, the only sensible thing you can do is to give it a rest. Enjoy a substitute for a short time, and you will not more than repay you in results.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are a willing and most efficacious aid to the stomach in just the same way. They contain all the essential elements
that the gastric juice and other digestive fluids of the stomach contain, and actually do just the same and do just the same work as the natural fluids would do, were the stomach well and sound. They, therefore, relieve the stomach, and permit it to rest and recuperate and regain its normal health and strength.

This "vacation" idea was suggested by the letter of a prominent lawyer in Chicago. Read what he says: "I was engaged in the most momentous undertaking of my life in bringing about the coalition of certain great interests that for me, I determined to give my stomach
a vacation. I was not the work of days, but of months; I was working night and day almost when at a very critical time my stomach work completely broke me. The unpleasant strain brought it about and hurried up what would have happened later on if I had not taken a vacation. I kept right on taking the tablets and braced up and went ahead with my work with renewed vigor, at just as much as I ever did and carried out that undertaking to a successful issue. I feel that I have Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to thank for saving me the handicaps I ever received, as well as my reputation, and last but not least,
my stomach."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are for sale
by all druggists at 50 cents a box.

CHILDREN TO CELEBRATE "UNCLE REMUS" BIRTHDAY

THE celebration of the fifty-seventh birthday of Joel Chandler Harris
by the children of the city at the Carnegie library on Saturday afternoon promises to be one of the most delicious affairs imaginable.

All the children who go to the Carnegie library are fast friends of "Uncle Remus," through the medium of his books, and these little folks feel that they would like to repay the author for the many happy hours he has given them in their reading. And they are going to give him a welcome he will not soon forget.

Mr. Harris will be the guest of honor, if he comes, and he will come if the children have to go to his home and bring him. Lee Jordan, the well known attorney, who is a master at dialect reading, will entertain the company with readings from the Uncle Remus tales,
and there will be other features of the programme quite as interesting.

The time, from 4 until 5 o'clock in the afternoon of every day, is known as
"the children's hour" at Carnegie library, and Miss Wallace, who knows how well the children love the Uncle Remus stories, suggested that the children's hour of next Saturday be devoted to celebrating the author's birthday. The little tots were charmed with the idea and are looking forward to it with the greatest eagerness.

manic board," answered City Attorney
Mayson.

"Do I also vote in council?" questioned Mayor Pro Tem Harwell.

"Not unless there is a tie," responded
the city attorney.

"I would like to know," said Alderman Inman, "whether the mayor pro tem.
has the option of voting or whether it is his duty to do so?"

"It is his duty," ruled City Attorney
Mayson.

In future, therefore, the mayor pro
tem. will vote upon all aldermanic questions.

Howell Park Purchase.
The Evan P. Howell park in West End is believed to be the first of a chain of parks around Atlanta. This land that is to be bought by the city for $10,600, citizens having subscribed another $5,000, was formerly the front yard of the late Captain Evan P. Howell, in west end.

He sold the place at auction some time before his death, and his estate owned no part of it. Citizens decided to purchase the land and make a public park
of it in honor of the memory of Captain Howell.

Mayor Woodward opposed the purchase at this time, because it involved making a debt for the next council to pay, but council disagreed with him regarding the advisability of this and failed to sustain his veto.

The Tanyard branch sewer ordinance was vetoed by the mayor because it extends that sewer beyond the city limits.
He thought all sewers should be carried to the city limits before extensions are made.

Water Works Salaries.
The board also concurred in the action of council upon the resolution which increases the salary of the general manager of the waterworks from $2,400 to $3,000 per annum and the salary of the secretary of the water board from $1,700 to $2,000 per annum, effective
September 1.

This is the second time this resolution has gone through both council and the aldermanic board. The first was declined in some respects, which made it illegal.

Married Women

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms
after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness.
All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing.
Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about
this liniment, will be sent free.

REVENGE MOTIVE FOR HOTEL FIRE Such Is Charge Made By Brown House Owners.

Entire Macon Police Department Is Looking for Missing Guest, Upon Whom Suspicion of Officially Appear To Be Centered.

Constitution Bureau, 467 Second Street, Macon, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—If charges made by the owners of the Brown house are true, and the police think they are, a guest of the hotel caused the $15,000 fire at that place last night and his motive was revenge.

At present the entire police department is looking for this missing guest, who comes from southwest Georgia, and the police of the city where the alleged firebug lives have been communicated with.

This guest came to the hotel a few days ago and after remaining a short time the police were called upon by the management to remove him. It was claimed he was drunk and boisterous.

This incident happened yesterday morning he reported to the police that he had been robbed of his watch. So objectionable did he become that the hotel management requested him to leave.

It is claimed by the hotel people that this guest was seen emerging from the attic, where the fire raged for two hours, about twenty minutes before the fire was discovered. As he had been heard to threaten revenge and as no guest had business in the attic, the management is convinced that he is the firebug.

No warrant has yet been sworn out by the hotel people, and for this reason Chief Conner will take no steps other than to watch out for the missing man. He is known and if a warrant is sworn out he will be located.

FOUND DEAD IN THE WOODS.

John Q. A. Black Comes to a Sudden End.

Lavonia, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—John Q. A. Black, who lived 2 miles from Lavonia, in Hart county, was found dead in the woods near his home where he had gone to cut wood early in the morning, by a party of searchers at 7 o'clock last night. The coroner's inquest indicated death from natural cause. He was 81 years old.

FOOD CAN DO THINGS

Real Miracles Worked in the Body.

From Manitoa a lady writes her reasons for the faith that is in her as to miracles wrought in the present day:

"I have been a great traveler in this and lands beyond the sea," she says, "and it is not surprising that my digestive apparatus, never very strong, should have become thoroughly deranged from the effect of the starchy, highly seasoned, greasy dishes usually set before wayfarers."

"I became the prey of all the distress and wretchedness that accompany dyspepsia, even to the development at times of an acute state of paralysis of the lining of the stomach, when I could eat nothing but merely sip warm milk till I was nearly starved and looked like a half-living skeleton."

"My brain grew sluggish and insomnia punished me till I became a hysterical wreck. My only hope and desire at this time was that I might reach the end of a painful life, and that speedily."

"I heard of the prodigious Grape-Nuts food and some months ago, without one grain of faith in it, bought a box. I found to my surprise that after one day's use of it I was already benefited, and by the time I had used all of the first package I became convinced that the days of miracles are not yet over—so great was the improvement that had come over me. It was the opening of the door, as it were, to good health and energy of brain and body. It gave me new vigor, mental and physical, my symptoms of a disordered stomach passed away, and the nervous, hysterical woman at last began to know what it really is to live. My eyes grew brighter and my body rounded out with returning flesh. In the first three weeks I gained 10 pounds in weight and 100 in strength and energy."

"The indescribable relief that came when I realized that I could discard the nauseating drugs with which I had been so long dosing myself and use in their stead a food so delicious and strengthening as Grape-Nuts, may be imagined."

"I write this in simple gratitude, for I feel that Grape-Nuts food has brought back to me all the joy of living. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason."

WANTS CHAMBER TO INVESTIGATE

Chamber of Commerce Committee to Examine Water Department

Water Board Last Evening Adopted Resolutions Requesting Organization of Business Men To Report Upon Need of Improvements.

The board of water commissioners has appealed to the Atlanta chamber of commerce to aid the water department in securing certain improvements which the commissioners think are imperative to the needs of the department.

The resolutions requesting the chamber of commerce to appoint a committee of investigation were adopted last night during the session of the board of water commissioners, which had been deferred from Wednesday afternoon. The measure, which was introduced by Commissioner M. M. Welch, follows:

"Whereas, the welfare of the city of Atlanta is so wholly involved in the efficiency of its department of water works; and, "Whereas, it is apparent that either the board of water commissioners overestimate the imperative importance of certain material improvements by which the system may be bettered and its capacity enlarged, or the public in general does not have a just realization of the condition and needs of the department as they relate to the welfare of the city; and,

"Whereas, it is desirable and important that the facts, whatever they may be, should be carefully ascertained and fully disclosed; therefore, be it

"Resolved 1. That the Atlanta chamber of commerce be and it is hereby, requested to appoint an impartial committee of citizens representing the industrial, commercial, manufacturing, financial and other interests of the city, of whom its president and secretary shall be members, with the request that said committee will thoroughly investigate the conditions and needs of the Atlanta water works, and give to the board of water commissioners and to the public the result of their investigation together with their conclusions and recommendations."

"Resolved 2. That the general manager and all other officials and employees of the Atlanta water works be and it is hereby, requested to grant said committee free access to, and unreserved inspection of, all books, accounts, records, machinery and property of every character owned or controlled by the department of water works; and to give said committee all possible information in reference to the condition and operation of the department."

An Interesting Situation. The fact that the board of water commissioners has requested the organization of Atlanta's business men to aid the department in securing improvements will be learned with interest.

The board has, upon a number of occasions, sent to the general council communications regarding improvements that it thought were necessary, and the executive officers of the water department have been making recommendations in favor of them for a number of years.

Last year the general council requested the general assembly of Georgia to give the city government authority to submit to the citizens the question of issuing bonds for the improvement of the water works. The general assembly gave the requested authority and it will devolve upon the general council of 1906 to make this campaign before the people in favor of these bonds.

The action of the board of water commissioners last evening was probably taken in order to show the people through an organization which has no affiliation with the water department that the improvements asked for by the water commissioners are, indeed, imperative.

WILL REPORT ADVERSELY.

Two Committees in Joint Session Decide Adversely Upon Change in Apportionment Sheet.

The ordinance which sought to take away from the city comptroller the right of preparing a tentative January apportionment sheet for the finance committee was yesterday afternoon acted upon adversely during a joint session of the ordinance committee, of which Councilman Ellis is chairman, and the finance committee, of which Councilman Patterson is chairman.

This is the measure which provided that the city comptroller do nothing more than secure for the finance committee a statement of the expenditures of the previous year, and an estimate of the income of the city for the ensuing year, leaving the actual writing of the sheet to the finance committee. The measure made it a breach of duty for the comptroller to do more or less than this.

The adverse report goes to council this afternoon.

YONAH COUNCIL ELECTION.

J. warden, Abraham Wasser; secretary, Charles B. Crenshaw; treasurer, A. E. Shulhafer; collector, William F. Williams; sentinel, Thomas J. Shepard; trustees, F. A. Brady, J. B. Wallace and John E. Arctic Explorer Weds Nashville Girl.

Nashville, December 7.—Anthony Peala, the Arctic explorer of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Miss Claire Puryear were married here last night. Miss Puryear came from an old and distinguished family of this state and is a first descendant of Commodore Matthew Maury. The bridegroom accompanied Baldwin on the first Ziegler expedition and was at the head of the second. The marriage was the result of a courtship begun at the Tennessee centennial in 1896.

"RESULTS OF RELIABILITY"

Everybody enjoys a trustworthy place to trade; a place where with the utmost unconcern every purchase made carries with it the complete confidence of the patron.

It is a business confidence that cannot suddenly command trade, it is a confidence won by many years of unswerving, undeviating adherence to the great basic principle of all successful merchandising. One quality, always THE BEST, at the lowest consistent profit.

The present enormous volume of business we are doing is not through any sudden impulse on the part of the people to buy our goods, but through the cumulative efforts of forty years of honest reputation for selling the choicest distillery and winery products, to the absolute exclusion of fake imitation liquors and contraband goods of any nature.

This inflexible policy has won for us the largest high class family trade in Atlanta and the South.

It has won for us the unqualified endorsements of reputable physicians everywhere.

It has won for us the highest praise of the state chemist, whose frequent analyses of our leading brands taken from open stock have always proven the highest attainable qualities.

It has won for us the reputation of selling goods as good as we say they are.

This reputation is the best protection for you today—buy from a firm whose name is a positive guarantee of quality.

The tintinnabulations of faintly distant bells are awakening the "spirit of Christmas." Visions of delightful things to eat and drink are dancing before the eyes, and activity in supplying the culinary demands, as well as the beverage complements of the festive feasts, is now an emphatic necessity.

Wine and Brandy sauces—seasoning for the toothsome mince meat; liquor preservatives for the kingly fruit cake, the cake that represents the orthodox in Christmas culinary—the vines and brandies for the pungent plum pudding with its wreathing vapors of ambrosial essence.

Then the egg-nog, frothy topped and creamy bodied, the typical cheer to which none other can play the understudy.

The punches, fruity, fragrant melanges, that call for liberal portions of Champagne, Tokay, Madeira, Claret, fine Brandies, Rums and Cordials, and on the choicest alone of these depend their excellence.

Our stock of all these essentials is lavish, comprising the rarest vintages of the old world, and the finest products of California and Ohio.

It is but 16 days till Christmas. Anticipate your needs and place your orders—have them at hand the moment you want them.

There are so many "wait till the last minute" items that will bob up in spite of all your planning against them, that our suggestion, especially to our out-of-town patrons, to make up and send us their orders, is timely and advantageous.

We have an unsurpassed mail order and shipping department at your command for the prompt expedition of your orders, and you will never be disappointed as to correctness of filling or shipping.

AN EVEN BREAK MADE BY THE FIRST CHOICES

New Orleans, December 7.—Favorites could do no better than to break even at the Crescent City Jockey Club's track today. Hannibal Bey, Paaden and Lieber were the successful choices. Football Squad of Gordon Institute, which meets the team from Mooney today at Barnesville.

PREP ELEVENS ARE CONFIDENT

Coach Blake, of Gordon, Believes
His Team Will Win Today.

If Mooney Is Beaten This Afternoon
Blake and the Gordon Institute
Team Will Own Barnesville.

Gordon Institute eleven, of Barnesville, Ga., will meet the Mooney school team, of Tennessee, in Barnesville this afternoon for the prep championship of the south.

Of course, Gordon Institute represents Georgia and Mooney the state of Tennessee, leaving a number of other states to be heard from, but outside of the two states prep athletics are not so much encouraged, and the elevens from these two schools would probably be able to tie up any other team in the south with ease.

Coach Heisman, of Tech, will be the umpire on this festive occasion, and Reynolds Tichenor will act as referee. Coach Heisman will tell the readers of The Constitution Saturday morning how the game came out. As he will be on the field following each play, he will be able to judge better of the work of the two teams than any other man at the game.

Today Barnesville is overflowing with football enthusiasts. The staid citizens of that town are as much interested in the game as the boys at the school. Frank Blake is the big man of the town. What he says goes in the town, and if he wins the game today, he can have anything that he wants in Barnesville.

BEDELL BOYS IN THE LEAD

Brothers Retained at 10 O'clock Their Lead of One Lap.

New York, December 8.—In spite of several determined sprints on the part of the riders in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, the Bedell brothers, riding as the Long Island team, still retained at 1 o'clock this morning their lead of one lap. Except for the occasional sprints the pace remains very slow. The relative positions of the ten teams still in the race have undergone no change during the last thirty hours. The score of the leaders at 1 a. m. was 1,574 miles, 1 lap, and the six teams standing next, 1,574 miles.

The record for the ninety-seventh hour is 1,882 miles and 4 laps, made by Miller and Waller in 1899.

THE FUNERAL SERVICES OF W. A. McElreath, father of Walter McElreath, of Atlanta, who died Tuesday at his home at Lost Mountain, were conducted yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, 3 miles from Powder Springs. Many members of the Seventh Georgia regiment in thirty years of service, and throughout the civil war, attended the funeral. The death of Mr. McElreath has caused universal regret. He lacked five years of the number allotted by the psalmist, but during the years he lived he made a good name, and won hundreds of friends, who will ever think of him with reverence.

Miss Green had been in Atlanta, and was a member of Silver Cloud council Daughters of Phebeant, and the members of this order will attend the funeral in a body. Were Some of the Winning Long Shots—Entry by Wishard Refused.

New Orleans, December 7.—A fairly good attendance was evinced at City Park today, though there was a falling off in the number of bookmakers, only thirteen drawing in for the day. The betting was lively and as five out of the six favorites were beaten, it is evident that they must have spent a profitable afternoon.

In the last race, Otzgo, belonging to U. S. Wishard, was scratched by the judges because the entries of Mr. Wishard had been refused at Baltimore on account of the running of that buxer. It appears that the jockey club has not yet made its rulings on the action of the Baltimore stewards.

FIRST RACE—Five furlongs: Lady Ester, 115 (Wishard), 15 to 1, won; Rickety, 115 (Nicol), 1 to 3, second; Lord Provost, 110 (Meyer), 60 to 1, third. Time, 1:02. Doe Thompson, Honey Week, Clover Nook, Woolless, Wilfred, Cadillac and Pitkin ran.

FAMED STALLION, WATERCRESS, SOLD AT AUCTION FOR $71,000

NEW YORK, December 7.—Watercress, a brown stallion, 16 years old, by Springfield Wardale, bred by Lord Palmouth, in England, was sold by auction today for $71,000 to J. B. Haggin, who already owned a half interest in the horse through the Haggin-Tavis partnership in the famous Rancho del Fano stud. Today marked the end of the four days' dispersal sale of all the thoroughbreds of this stud. Over 400 head were sold, bringing a grand total of $405,275.

The price paid for Watercress today was the third largest ever paid for a horse by an American owner. The stallion Ormonde, sire of Ormondale, winner of this year's Futurity, and now at the Ormondale farm in California, was bought at auction sale in South America for $150,000. St. Blaise brought the highest price ever paid at a sale in this country, being bid in for $100,000 at the dispersal sale of the stable of the late August Belmont.

Watercress is the sire of Watercolor, Waterboy, Nanturum and many other horses prominent in the American turf. He will be sent to Mr. Haggin's Sombre stud in Kentucky.

Star Ruby, sire of Africander, Sombre, Animosity, Shooting Star and other well-known performers, was bid in by Mr. Haggin today for $30,000. Mr. Haggin also secured Goldfinch and St. Gallen at $16,000 each. Golden Garter, sire of Meehanus, was sold to A. J. Joyner for $10,000. As a 4-year-old he carried top weight and won twelve stake races in England. H. T. Oxman got Glenheimer for $3,100. For the imported Tuddington the bidding was lively. Joyner finally got him for $8,000. Tuddington is out of Mervora out of Nydia, who was the dam of Optimo, the dam of Sysonby.

Among the brood mares sold today was Zealandie, dam of Waterboy, who went to Thomas Welsh for $3,000. Twenty-two unraced fillies were sold, bringing a total of $29,375, or an average of $1,335 per head. Thirteen yearlings were sold, the lot bringing $11,800.

acceptable.

Governor-Senator LaFollette is sighing:
"How happy I could be with either

A little later President Roosevelt may

The door will be open in Korea, but

It is said a disaffected Panamanian

Prosecutor Hughes, of the life insurance investigation in New York, declared in a recent after-dinner speech that
"what we need is a revival of the sense of honor." This may be brought about by sharply increasing the population of our penitentiaries.

The word "graft" will be given its place among the "good" words in the dictionary. One of the dictionary editors has asked Governor Folk, of Missouri, to write the definition. Familiar as the word is to the present generation, it may require some explanation to posterity.

Governor Folk, who is charged with delivering a part of a funeral oration delivered by Bryan in congress for use in a recent funeral oration, the governor delivered in Missouri, explained to the reporters that the language and ideas
he borrowed were from Bob Ingersoll and not Bryan. As Colonel Bryan is on the other side of the world, he will probably not deem an explanation necessary, and Bob Ingersoll is dead.

The Exposition's Second Chapter.

The meeting of the twenty-five prominent citizens of Atlanta this afternoon will inaugurate the second official chapter of the industrial exposition of 1910. This important project, so enthusiastically launched at the recent dinner of the chamber of commerce, now enters that phase wherein the loyalty, the common sense, the energy and the good faith of Atlanta are to stand a critical test.

In other words, the business and professional men of Atlanta are now called upon to harness their enthusiasm and intelligence to the plow-and bring results. The city, the state and, in a measure, the section, are on record before the country as giving their approval and support to the exposition and the time has arrived to coin pledges into action.

The gravity of the session this afternoon cannot be exaggerated. These twenty-five men are virtually the architects of the exposition. Upon their action will largely depend its scope and success. And it is only just to say that Atlanta and the south may place confidence in their discretion and integrity. They represent in a typical sense the progressive commercial genius of the south,
the qualities they have displayed in the development of their respective careers may be relied upon to bring commensurate success to this vaster enterprise, in the furtherance of which their services are now enlisted.

We know their plans will be laid generously and yet with conservative restraint. They are the custodians of a great opportunity—the opportunity of a section extending from Mason
and Dixon's line to the Rio Grande, an empire rich in the developed and potential resources that make up the absolute necessities and the profitable luxuries of civilization. This knowledge should sustain their zeal, while tempering that zeal with the prudent deliberation that avoids pitfalls—or, what is worse—lukewarm success. We believe, too, they should bear in mind the wisdom of making this exposition a purely industrial one—
a business display of the progress of the south and of its definite promise. The truth, compact and without embellishment; it is sufficient to fix
the attention of the world.

Any action this afternoon is likely to affect southern history for the next fifty years. It is well to keep sight of that fact and of the obligations in the premises.

Good Roads for Georgia.

The Butler, Ga., Herald, of recent date, publishes a strong editorial
pointing out the value of good roads
to this state and urging concerted action looking to the improvement of our road system. It deals so sensibly with an important public problem that we print it elsewhere in full for the benefit of our readers.

The state of New York has just appropriated $50,000,000 to be judicially expended in the rebuilding and improvement of the highways of that commonwealth. The fact that they are already in fair condition,
demonstrates that the thrifty farmers
of that state see the practical worth of an investment which shall still further enhance their usefulness.
Georgia, of course, has no such sum to put at the disposal of a road-building commission; but we cite New York as showing the awakening of sentiment in this regard and we are,
furthermore, convinced that much can be accomplished by systematic and universal effort—perhaps in the manner suggested by The Herald.

The Constitution has consistently maintained a favorable and an aggressive attitude in the matter of public road betterment. We have long realized its vital importance to every interest and every citizen of the state. Good roads mean a multiplication of population, by way of immigration; they mean easier and cheaper access to the markets for the large and small farmer; the immediate extension of the benefits of rural free delivery; the spreading and the evolution of educational facilities for the children of the farmers; profit for the city and country merchant as well as the rural patron, in that they bring the farm nearer to the store and the factory; social and religious opportunities now denied those who dwell in the more isolated precincts.

Many of the counties in Georgia have taken a long step toward the solution of their road problems by local enactments and organizations.
In such instances, as well as in states
where improvements have been of a general nature, the record has been one of immediately and radically increased values for both lands and products. There is no reason why Georgia should not be gridironed with roads guaranteed to "stay put" in all varieties of weather, feeders to her spreading railroad systems and sleepless promoters of development in every commercial and agricultural channel.

Canada's Recent Great Progress.

The prosperity that the United States has been enjoying at high tide
for five or six years seems to have been enjoyed in an equal degree by the Dominion of Canada. Indeed, in some respects the recent great progress of Canada is even more remarkable than that of her neighbor, for Canada has not our diversified resources, the climate is not so favorable for general agriculture, and her governmental condition as regards
tariff duties is far from favorable.
Nevertheless, Canada has made phenomenal progress and is prospering
in a highly gratifying manner.

A special agent of the United States government has just completed a tour of the Dominion, and his report of his observation is interesting. He traveled from Halifax, on the Atlantic coast, clear across the continent to Vancouver, gathering many valuable facts and figures for official publication. He found that the foreign commerce of Canada,
which has a population of some 6,000,000 souls, aggregated for the last fiscal year $470,151,000. Of the imports, which amounted to $266,
834,000, the United States supplied $166,000,000, or a little more than 62 per cent. These figures show how valuable the Canadian market is to American exporters and how important it is that closer trade relations should be cultivated between the two countries. It is readily conceivable that our trade with the Dominion
would be very materially increased under reciprocity. The failure to grant Canada tariff favors is resulting in making her more and more independent of American trade by building up her own domestic industries.

But the most surprising phase of recent Canadian development is the large immigration that that country
is attracting from the United States.
Many thousands of Americans, principally from the northwestern states, have crossed over the border and taken government lands as free homesteads in Canada, under the liberal terms offered settlers by the Dominion government. From January 1 to October 1, 1905, nearly 25, 000 Americans have settled in the Canadian northwest, nearly one-half of the number going from North Dakota and Minnesota. This hegra
from the states to the bleak plains
of Manitoba and British Columbia has been going on for years, but the present year's emigration is the largest yet.

It is a pity a lot of these hardy, industrious American settlers could not be induced to come south, where great opportunities for home-making await them.

The Tragedy of a Nation.

The assassination of Sakharoff, the Russian former minister of war, by a woman revolutionary, for the first time brings conspicuously to the fore
the feminine element hitherto somewhat lacking in the popular turbulence; an element decisively present in the upheaval through which the French peasantry rid itself of autocracy.

More important than this casual fact is the light it throws on the national situation. Official St. Petersburg is frankly in a state bordering on panic, so terrifying is the uncertainty as to where the hand of the assassin will next strike. Witte's patient confidence in the strength and conservatism of the people is said to be waning. There is talk of a military dictatorship, which would mean a return to the bloody repression of the old days and an undoing of all that has been accomplished in the way of progress since the close of the Russo-Japanese war.

Absence of coherent leadership,
rival ambitions and selfish dissensions appear to be the provoking causes of the failure of Witte's ingenious programme. Seemingly, this people rejoice over the radical concessions made by the czar and, to quote W. T. Stead, they "still cling"
to the idea of an emperor—veneration of centuries' inheritance is not easily dispelled. But the men who should be pointing the way to liberty and to peace are wrangling among themselves as to office and popular preference, holding out for policies calculated to further their personal interests, and inflaming the populace with false and shallow notions of freedom.

Surrounded and obscured by such perilous and inexplicable conditions,
the man who essays a prophecy on the ultimate Russian climax must indulge largely in speculation—and optimism, for its own sake rather than upon justifiable grounds.

(From The Butler Herald.)
Nothing is so important to all the people of the state as good roads, which can never be had under our present shoddy road-working system. Three-fourths of the country and expense of farmers in marketing their crop comes from bad, heavy and oftentimes intolerable roads.

The pleasure of living in the country,
to say nothing of the incalculable increase in the value of farm lands, would be increased four-fold.

A system of perfect road building must first be devised and enacted in a law before we can ever hope for better general road conditions for the rural country. It is true that some of the larger and wealthier counties by reason of working misdemeanor criminals,
have very good roads, but this is only local and benefits a very small percentage of the people of the state.

Looking to the solution of this important problem, Senator Walter E. Stead, of this district, will introduce in the senate at the next session a bill providing for a state road commissioner,
who shall be a skilled civil engineer,
and who shall have general supervision
of all the road-working counties in the state and a county road commissioner for each county; also, providing for a general road tax, instead of compulsory road duty.

He Wants LaFollette To Resign.

Madison, Wis., December 7.—Somewhat of a sensation was caused in the assembly today when Assemblyman Miller, democrat, introduced a resolution calling on Governor LaFollette to resign
at once either the governorship or the United States senate.

The resolution was laid on the table.

Free Passes Discontinued.

New York, December 7.—With reference to a report that the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad company had decided to discontinue the issuing of free passes it was learned today that the company took action to that end three weeks ago.

"JUST FROM GEORGIA."

"In Poverty Lane."

I.

Them little fellers in "Poverty Lane," Shut from the sunshine—in rags an' in rain—
No use to tell 'em of harps far away,
When the harps o' the present they're wantin' to play!

Think o' them there—buildin' castles in vain—

II.

Them little fellers in "Poverty Lane,"—
Dregs o' the life—up their starved lips
must drain!
The Santa Claus knows not the way to the poor.
For the number is dim on each storm-battered door!

Think o' them there!—make the dark pathway plain
To the sad little fellers in "Poverty Lane!"

III.

What would bring joy to them out o' the strife?
Only a little from out o' your life!
Homeless tonight as the wind blowin'
chill—
No flame on the hearth, an' no stockings
to fill!

And the search o' the angels would not be in vain!
For the Kingdom of Heaven's in "Poverty Lane!"

IV.

"When the Great Poet Comes."
Some time since Mr. James Whitcomb
Riley foretold what the great coming poet would be; and here is fine
thought of him by the late Frederic Lawrence Knowles:

"When the tunesters of our time
Learn to live before they rhyme,
Burn their sonnets to a star—
Love the brown earth where they are;
He shall stand—with brow of flame,
As the Hebrew prophets came,
Shouting, as he smites the string,
In Jehovah's name I sing!"

A pessimist like me writes: "The country's going to the devil still"—But it's almost impossible to go to the devil
"still." You've got to go a-huslin' and a-howlin'!

Trouble Ahead.

"There seems to be something on your mind," said the preacher to the Billville philosopher who was about to embark on a long voyage.

"There is," was the reply. "I'm so baldheaded that I'm afraid my crown will slip off."

There Was Just One of Him.

In a report of a meeting in London
an English newspaper says: "I had the pleasure of meeting several distinguished Germans, and one intelligent American."

His Literary Sin.

Quoth Satan, to the author,
"You're now in Hades town.
And we've some accounts to settle
When the auditor comes round."
It is not that you wrote me 'up,'
But that you wrote me 'down!'"

"Really, I could not write you 'up.'"
The author then replied:
"You took your flight from heaven's height."

Some years before I died;
I said the word—you but preferred
In Hades to reside."

Then quoth his Majesty supreme:
"The question's with you still:
You 'covered all the ground' to me,
But did not 'fill the bill.'"
It is not that you wrote me 'up,'
But you wrote me 'down' so ill!"

There is a new book on the market—
"The Devil at Sea." Such a tale as that may be taken with a grain of salt,
which, in this case, is real convenient.

"No Wonder."

A north Georgia man has a rattlesnake
"that sings." Not only will certain brands of Georgia "moonshine" make a snake sing, but they're keen enough to send it wobbling off, under the delusion that it's the whole concert.

The Ring of the Christmas Dimes.

Give us the joys we've been wantin'
long—
Not the joy o' the Christmas chimes,
But something more of a jingling song—
The ring o' the Christmas dimes!
That is the song that we like to sing—
The song of the strivin' times:
The song with a ring an' sweep an'
swing—
The ring o' the Christmas dimes!

Didn't Stop Him.

"There's no accounting for this thing that galls genius."
"What has it been doing now?"
"Well, that fellow who has been complaining that he was writin' for bread, inherited a fortune, but even that didn't make him quit! Now the blamed fool's writin' for joy!"

Fan the Fire.

Keep up the fire in the world today—
Hustle an' hustle round about!
It's only over there,
Where the wicked shall appear,
You're wantin' for the fire to be out!

None of the present generation will be here to celebrate all the birthdays
"Uncle Remus" will have. But they'll be set down plain enough in the calendar of Posterity.

Be Ready for 'Em.

Feel'n' po' on lonesome
Would make a angel grum;
Don't reckon too far fer riches;
But grab 'em w'en dey come!

The Little Things of Life.

Just takes a little happiness
To keep us goin' long;
A sign ain't half a minute
From the music of a song!

PRESS PREDICTS SUCCESS FOR EXPOSITION OF 1910

W. AYCOCK HERALD: Atlanta's exposition will be the biggest ever, and every Georgian should lend a helping hand.

Rome Tribune: That 1910 Atlanta exposition may now be classed as one of the sure things of earth.

Peiham Journal: Atlanta, with her customary enthusiasm, is pushing the movement for a big exposition to be held within her gates in 1910.

Darien Gazette: Of course Atlanta is going to have an industrial exposition in 1910, and it is going to be a great show.

Athens Banner: The exposition to be held in Atlanta in 1910 will be one of the greatest ever held in the world. It will be of immense benefit to the city of Atlanta in particular and to the south in general.

Acworth Post: Atlanta has announced to the world that she will have a big industrial exposition in 1910. It is proposed to raise $1,000,000 for this purpose, and that "Atlanta spirit" assures a magnificent success of the exposition.

Columbus Ledger: The great exposition that Atlanta would get up would be a great thing for Georgia. Let every one join in with the movement, as it is all for Georgia.

Nashville Herald: If Atlanta is a mind to she can make that 1910 exposition a sensation.

Lumpkin Independent: Atlanta is now formulating a project for the biggest world's exposition in 1910 that the south has ever gotten up. If Atlanta cannot get up such a mammoth undertaking, no other southern city need make the attempt.

Lawrenceville Herald: Atlanta is planning to have a great southern exposition in 1910, and $500,000 is to be raised by the popular subscription for that purpose.
The money will be forthcoming, as the whole city seems enthused with the idea,
and when the true "Atlanta spirit" asserts itself there is never a failure. So here's to the Great Southern Exposition of 1910.

Cordele News: We congratulate Atlanta
on her desire to give a great exposition in 1910. Success is already assured.

Amorion Times-Recorder: Atlanta is brewing a world's exposition for 1910.
When Miss Marthaville undertakes such an enterprise she makes of it a splendid success.

Moultrie Observer: If Atlanta insists on holding that exposition we suppose
we will have to fall in line somehow.

Columbus Enquirer-Sun: Mayor Woodward charges the practice of nepotism in the municipal departments of Atlanta.
That is rather a mild charge for Atlanta.

East Point Enterprise: See Atlanta has

Baggage Master Held for He Professed Religion and Stealing Trunk From Car.

On the charge of having stolen a trunk belonging to a wealthy hardware merchant of Birmingham, and which contained clothing and jewelry worth about $1,400, M. A. Black, a baggage master on the Southern railroad, was arrested at Austell yesterday morning by County Policemen Poole and Heard and brought to Atlanta and placed in the Tower.

The theft occurred last August. The owner of the trunk had returned from a trip to Europe, and passed through Atlanta en route to Birmingham. The trunk left Atlanta in Black's car, but was missing after the train reached Birmingham. Since then efforts to locate the missing trunk were futile. A short while ago an overcoat which had been in the trunk was sawed "rall,"
and this led to Black being suspected.

Black left Atlanta Wednesday night on a run to Birmingham, and a short while afterwards the railroad agent at Aus-tell was "phoned" to have Black arrested and held. Chief Turner was notified, and Officers Poole and Heard left the city at an early hour yesterday morning
on a special train.

The officers say that Black, after his arrest, confessed to having stolen the trunk. They say he told them he had the trunk taken from the baggage car
in Birmingham and removed to his room.
He gave as his reason, so the officers say, for having committed the theft that he was tempted and could not resist.

The prisoner will be given a preliminary trial in a few days.

TINY SHOPPERS SCATTER YULETIDE SPIRIT ABROAD

THESE are sure "tell-you-what-I-wish-Santa-Claus-would-bring-me-for-Christmas" times, and the city of Atlanta never looked prettier than it does this week, with its host of tiny shoppers of the yuletide season. The stores are crowded and the pavements are pretty much the same way just while there is a good deal of elbowing and pushing in the very nature of things, there is lots more good nature than people even.

Possibly this twelve-cent cotton may have something to do with it, but the merchants will tell you that this season is making all kinds of new records and already it is certain that the pack that Santa Claus carries this year will be bigger than ever before. While the trade has been heavy right through the fall, it was not until this week that the regular Christmas crush started and the windows began to blossom with all of the beautiful presents that seem to bloom in the air and adding to the gayety of nations about the same time as the red holly berries and the wax leaves tinged the bleak winter forests with a color that only seems to accentuate the homesome looking grays that speak of the coming of snow. And just as high in almost every window is some touch of evergreen or suggestion of Old Santa, so high above the dense undergrowth of the woods nature is hanging her cluster of holy berries that Br'er Rabbit, Br'er Fox, Br'er Wolf and all the other "creatures" may improve their opportunities as they come before the dead trees have been stripped of their clusters of sentiment.

Always enterprising and energetic, the Atlanta spirit never reaches such heights as long about this season of the year, when hand in hand with the spirit of Bethlehem it marches back and forth from where Peachtree street is lost in the suburbs of Brookwood to where South Pryor, of the southern metropolis, becomes the McDonough road of Georgia. Then it is that old Whitehall and all of the down town district is stripped of its last vestige of selfishness and the spirit of giving and the generosity of twelve months' accumulation claims noly, bustling Atlanta for its own.

And the song the city sings at such a time as this is one great and glad song of Christmas carol that all who run may read or stop and listen for the moment and then pass on with higher and better impulses for the work to be done and the one dominant note that marks the fullest beauty of this anniversary overture is the music that lives and laughs in the faces of happy children. Great is Atlanta, but it needs only the pause of a moment or two to watch this coming generation as it passes by and feel confident of the Greater Atlanta that is certain to develop with the work of their hands.

No old Scrooges in this city crying "Out upon Christmas." Apparently that sort don't live here, for crowd as you may and push as you will, never an angry retort will you hear rising from the midst of this great cavalcade of tiny Christmas shoppers. And isn't it a good thing that notwithstanding the fact that pleasure and happiness is so epidemic that they don't have to quarantine against such things? If it were not so, Atlanta would instantly become the loneliest city in all the union, for right now it looks as though it would be mighty hard to find a single person

W. L. Smith's Store Burned.

Fayetteville, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—W. L. Smith's store was burned at 2:30 last night. The entire stock of goods was burned, amounting to $3,000, with $2,000 insurance. The store adjoined a cotton warehouse with 2,000 bales of cotton, and it was by good work that it was saved.

Art Lamps

We've just added a very charming apartment to our Oriental Room. It is devoted entirely to Lamps, and is well worth a visit, no matter whether you come to select a lamp or simply to see the beautiful collection.

A touch of the button and you are in fairyland. Myriad lights gleam softly from vari-tinted shades, making an iridescent glow. The Arts and Crafts folk have wrought their choicest ideas into the most attractive forms. They have taken brass and bronze and copper and pottery and crystal and have shaped them into graceful conceits and practically-patterned effects that have very distinct aesthetic values. Lamps for every use are here, ranging from the smallest desk-light to the stately and imposing electrolier—each a thoroughly worthy piece of work.

The prices run from ten to a hundred dollars.

What more pleasing could you select for the "special gift" than one of these beauties?

SPENCER COMES TO BE WITNESS

Will Be Questioned Today As To Central's Stock.

Interesting Inquiry Will Be Held Before the Railroad Commission. Seaboard Air Line Given Hearing on Proposition To Cut Down Freight Rates.

President Samuel Spencer, of the Southern railway, accompanied by other officials of the system, will be in Atlanta today.

President Spencer comes for the purpose of appearing before the railroad commission at 9:30 o'clock this morning and answering inquiries as to the ownership of the capital stock of the Central of Georgia Railway Company. President J. F. Hanson, of the Central of Georgia, will also be here for the same purpose.

This hearing will be held, as has been stated in The Constitution, as the result of a petition filed by the minority stockholders of the Augusta Southern Railway Company, represented by former Congressman William H. Fleming, of Augusta. In this petition it is charged that the Southern's control and operation of the Augusta Southern is illegal and in violation of the laws of Georgia, because it is claimed that the Southern owns the Central's capital stock and thereby controls the line.

The hearing will be held, as has been stated in The Constitution, as the result of a petition filed by the minority stockholders of the Augusta Southern Railway Company, represented by former Congressman William H. Fleming, of Augusta. In this petition it is charged that the Southern's control and operation of the Augusta Southern is illegal and in violation of the laws of Georgia, because it is claimed that the Southern owns the Central's capital stock and thereby controls the line.

Seven or eight years ago President Spencer was before the railroad commission for a similar purpose and at that time testified that the Central's stock was owned by the Southern. This testimony he afterwards corrected, as he stated he found he was in error, and it was not shown at that time that the stock was so owned. What the circumstances are now is not known. All the commission has ascertained on this subject up to the present time is that the Central's stock, of 49,985 shares of it, are held by a committee composed of A. H. Johnson, George Sherman, of New York, and Alexander R. Lawton, of Savannah. The other fifteen shares are held by the directors. Who the committee represents has not been learned.

Seaboard and Class A.
Through its attorneys, the Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company presented to the railroad commission yesterday the reasons why, in their opinion, the Seaboard should not be changed from class C to class A of the commission's classified list of railroads. At present the Seaboard is in class C, where it is permitted to charge 25 per cent. In addition to the standard tariff rates for local freight hauls, while in class A no percentage is allowed.

There appeared on the part of the railroad company E. T. Brown, of Brown & Randolph, and Alex. King and John D. Little, of King, Spaulding & Little, Assistant General Freight Agent A. Pope, of the Seaboard, who also presented considerable evidence in behalf of the road. Considerable evidence was presented with a view to showing that the increased earning property of the Seaboard, as shown by the increase in operating expenses and the price of materials.

The commission has already held similar hearings in the cases of the Central of Georgia and the Atlantic Coast Line, but will not decide the question involved until after a similar hearing is had with regard to the Southern railway on December 13.

MELTON BROWN GETS RESPIRE

Was To Have Been Hanged for Wife Murder in Baker County Today.

On the even of his expected execution for the murder of his wife, Melton Brown, a Baker county negro, was last night granted a respite by Governor Terrell until December 29. In order that the prison commission may have opportunity to pass upon his application for commutation to life imprisonment. Governor Terrell granted this respite upon a statement made to him by Senator Benton Odum, who drove from Newton over to Camilla, a distance of about 20 miles, and called him up by long distance telephone. Senator Odum informed the governor that the entire jury which convicted Brown and a large number of prominent citizens of Baker county would join in a request to the prison commission for recommendation to life imprisonment, and asked that a respite be granted until the matter could be presented to the prison commission.

As Brown was to have been hanged today it was necessary to act quickly. Governor Terrell wired the sheriff of Baker at Camilla, and Senator Odum carried the telegram over to Newton last night. Brown is given a three weeks' respite and the case will be passed on by the prison commission, probably next week.

JUDGE CANDLER

TO LEAVE BENCH

Expected He Will Leave Supreme Court on January 15.

While He Has Not Reached a Definite Conclusion, He Has It Under Consideration, and Will Soon Decide—Will Practice Law if He Resigns.

Associate Justice John S. Candler, of the supreme court, will, in all probability, tender his resignation from that bench to take effect January 15, 1906.

While Justice Candler has not reached a definite conclusion regarding the matter, he has it under serious consideration, and yesterday afternoon it was talked over at some length among all the members of the court in the office of Chief Justice W. H. Fish.

The five other justices of the supreme court were insistent in their efforts to persuade Justice Candler to dismiss his intention, and knowing that the state of his health was the principal cause actuating him, they freely offered to give him an indefinite leave of absence, attending to all of his work for him, if he would remain with them.

Naturally Justice Candler felt very much gratified over the evidences of concern on the part of his associates on the bench, and he promised to give the matter very careful consideration before taking any positive action.

Would Practice Law.

When asked about the matter by a representative of The Constitution, Justice Candler said he preferred not to discuss it further than to say he had had the matter of resigning under consideration for some time, his physicians having advised him against much longer continuing the confining work which the duties of the supreme bench impose. He said he had not as yet reached any definite conclusion in the matter, but would probably do so within the next few days.

It has been reported that several very flattering business offers have been made recently to Justice Candler, and he was asked if he would accept any of these in the event he left the bench.

"No," Justice Candler replied, "I will not. The practice of law has been my life profession, and if I should leave the bench, I would return to that practice." It is known that the presidency of the Central Bank and Trust Corporation, the new bank with $500,000 capital, soon to be established in the Candler building, was tendered to Justice Candler some weeks ago, but he declined it.

Justice Candler's only son, Asa Warren Candler, now a law student at the University of Georgia, will become of age in January, and upon the completion of his law course will take up the practice of law here. In the event Justice Candler leaves the bench, it is understood to be his intention to associate his son with him in the practice of his profession.

Ten Years on the Bench.

On January 15 next Justice Candler will have completed ten years' service on the bench. He carried with him to the supreme bench the same vigor, energy and ability which he displayed as solicitor general of the Stone Mountain circuit, and afterwards as judge of the superior court of the Atlanta circuit.

Justice Candler is now in the third year of his service on the supreme bench. Since he has seen there some of the most difficult cases which have come before that tribunal for consideration have been assigned to him, and he has handled them in a masterful manner. His associates and his many friends over the state will regret very much to see him leave the bench.

Recently the big tax cases before the supreme court, those of the Georgia Railroad and Banking Company and the Central of Georgia Railway Company against the state, involving the question of taxation of $3,000,000 of stock in the Western Railway of Alabama, after argument, were assigned to Justice Candler to write out the opinions, and he has handled the task before him. It is said it will take a month, at least, to prepare the opinions in these cases, along with the other work there is to be done, so that the court will not be able to hand down these decisions before about January 15.

IS "NOT GUILTY," DECLARES JURY

Peterman Comes Clear on Charge of Conspiracy.

Columbus, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—The jury in the Peterman case, after being out three hours, brought in late this afternoon a verdict of not guilty. The verdict was received with tears of joy by Mrs. Peterman and two little girls. Quite sensational was the defense in the case of J. T. Peterman, of Taylor county, Georgia, whose trial on the charge of conspiracy ended in the United States court here today.

Peterman was charged with having conspired against the life of Frank Wilcher, a government witness in an illicit distilling case, who was shot to death on the streets of Butler, Ga., in December, 1903, by Ben S. Garrett. It was claimed by the government that Garrett, Peterman and John Bateman were jointly interested in illicit distilling, and that they conspired to get Wilcher out of the way because he was the government's informer and main witness against them. Garrett escaped after the killing, and has not yet been captured.

The defendant yesterday placed on the stand Mrs. Ben S. Garrett, who testified that Frank Wilcher came to her house and offered her a drink of whisky. She declined, and he then made her an improper proposal, she says, and offered her $10 as compensation. She told her husband of the insult that had been offered him, and he hunted up Wilcher and killed him.

Negro Boy Released.

Athens, Ga., December 7.—(Special.)—Murray Chatman, a negro boy, who has been in jail for several months on the charge of having murdered Will Webb, another negro, by pushing him into the Oconee river and drowning him, was released yesterday by the grand jury when that body returned no bill in his case.

TO SHOW WONDER STONE AT LUNCH AND BAZAR.

THE Sheltering Arms Association will hold a bazaar Saturday at the home of Mrs. William Kiser, 355 Peachtree street, at which the famous wonder stone now in the possession of Mrs. Bacon, of this city, will be exhibited. This stone, picked up by the owner in the Tyroese mountains is regarded with awe and veneration by many who have seen it and thousands of dollars have been offered for it. It was found on a mountain named after Christ, and is said by those who have seen it to be a marvellously perfect image of the Christ head.

The wonder stone will be on exhibit during the entire day, and hundreds who have heard of it will doubtless take this opportunity to see it. From 12 to 3 o'clock a delightful lunch will be served, consisting of birds to be prepared by Chief W. R. Joyner, hot rolls, peas and several other attractive dishes. Tea will be served by a number of Japanese tea girls in native costume. The ladies of the association direct the attention of the men especially to the luncheon, which promises to be one of the most delightful ever arranged on any similar occasion. The association has a large number of articles of unusual merit, which will be disposed of Saturday.

Miss Patty's Luncheon.

MISS KATHERINE PATTY entertained at buffet luncheon yesterday at her home on Linden avenue, and the occasion was one of pronounced beauty and enjoyment.

The house had attractive decoration in palms and pink roses, vases of the roses lighting the mantels, tables, etc., and in the drawing room and dining room tall silver candlesticks were lighted; these candlesticks, by the way, being elegant heirlooms which were used in the George Washington family from one branch of which the charming young hostess is descended. The dining table had a handsome centerpiece of pink roses and all the dainty table details were in pink. The luncheon was a delicious one and punch was enjoyed in the library.

Miss Minnie Van Epps and Miss Florence Werner made an attractive picture at the punch bowl. Miss Werner wearing a handsome cloth gown in gray and Miss Van Epps' becoming toilet of gray crepe de chine. Assisting in the entertainment of the guests, Miss Julia Orme was charming in Alice blue taffetas and lace. Mrs. J. O. Mathewson wore a black lace gown over white. Mrs. William Jennings at the coffee urn, wore a dainty lingerie gown over pink. Mrs. Charles Pettigrew's handsome toilet was of gray silk, and among the guests, Miss Sarah Collier was one of the prettiest of the young ladies in a green taffetas suit with a white felt hat and plumes. Miss Helen Crew was handsome in white crepe de chine. Miss Aline Patterson was strikingly pretty, her gown of pale blue cloth richly embroidered and her hat an imported one of pale blue velvet and plumes with a touch of gold. Mrs. W. A. Winblish was one of the handsomest women present in a pale gray cloth gown with ermine stole and hat. Mrs. John B. Roberts was notably attractive in a stylish silk suit in black and white with a rose-colored hat. Miss Jeannette Swift was attractive among the debutantes, wearing a gray tailor suit and a picture hat. Mrs. Robert Shelden was becomingly gowned in gray silk.

To Miss Baker.

MRS. T. D. LONGINO'S 5 o'clock tea yesterday afternoon was an event of social interest and brilliance, two hundred and fifty ladies being entertained with graceful hospitality at her home in West End. Miss Mary Lou Baker, a charming bride of December, was the guest of honor. A bright anticipation of the Christmas season was suggested in the decorations, the prevailing colors being red and green, and holly introduced with cheery effect among the bamboo, palms, ferns and red roses that gave the reception floor a festive air.

Holly wreaths were hung in the windows with loops of crimson ribbon, and red bells were suspended from all the chandeliers, and from the arched entrances into the reception hall and between the drawing room and dining room. Palms were massed in effective places, and the arches of folding doors had draped portieres of bamboo. Bamboo framed the windows and mantel mirrors, and the dining room was particularly rich in its decorative plan.

The table had its lace cover over red, the centerpiece was a tall vase of bamboo, red bells from the chandelier almost meeting them, and holly formed a tracery over the lace, while the candlesticks were shaded in red and the minis, etc., were in red. Tea and delicious sandwiches were served and in the library the punch bowl held a tempting frozen punch. An orchestra played during the calling hours.

Mrs. Longino was a lovely hostess in a white lace gown with corsage bouquet of Parma violets. Miss Baker was prettily gowned in white crepe de chine, and Mrs. Frank Baker's becoming toilette was pale blue crepe de chine. Among the ladies who assisted in entertaining Mrs. T. C. Longino was attractive in a sheer white Philippine cloth trimmed with gold lace. Mrs. William McClelland was handsomely attired in white. Miss Eugenia Harper's striking toilette was of red. Mrs. J. J. Simpson wore a dainty white silk gown. Mrs. E. C. Merry's pretty toilette was of cream silk. Mrs. Mark Tober was lovely in flowered silk net. Mrs. Ed Tompkins wore white crepe de chine, and at the punch an attractive group included Miss Ethel Thornton in pink null, Miss Mildred Caldwell, wearing a soft white silk, and Miss Kathleen Wright, whose handsome gown was of white radium cloth.

SANTA CLAUS' MAIL IS HEAVY

Letters Addressed to Him, Care Constitution, Will Be Printed.

The letters addressed to Santa Claus, care of The Constitution, continue to come to this office. As soon as The Constitution made the announcement several days ago that all letters written by children to the good old gentleman would be printed, letters in children's handwriting immediately began to arrive at the office.

A reporter of The Constitution interviewed people close to Santa Claus yesterday, and they stated that Kris Kringle was delighted with the idea of the children having their letters to him printed in the paper. Christmas is growing short, and those children who have failed to mail their letters to Santa Claus should do so without further delay. The Constitution requests all children who write letters to send their photographs with them.

Here are a few of the letters received yesterday:

"Dear Santa Claus: When you come to Athens please come to see me. My name is Maybeth Huggins, and I live on Bauber street, and I want you to bring me a little doll and cradle and a pair of bed room slippers with black fur around the top like they live downtown. Then I want some dishes, and a Topsy doll with a silk dress on and a pair of shoes on her feet. I also want some candy and nuts, oranges and apples, and if you have got anything left bring it to my mamma, and I am going to be a good little girl until Christmas." MAYBETH HUGGINS, "Athens, Ga."

"Aged five years."

"Dear Santa Claus: Please bring me a little fire engine and handkerchiefs, stocking full of nice things and a Christmas tree fixed up and a pencil. That's all. Your little friend," LELAND VOOT, "Capitol avenue."

A letter from another little boy reads:

"Dear Santa: Please bring me an air gun and shots, box of handkerchiefs, stocking full of goodies, fire crackers and some other little toys. My birthday is on Christmas day, and I am always cheated out of my birthday presents. I send my picture so you can see how I look. Your little friend," ALBERT, "284 Capitol avenue."

THEATERS.

At the Grand.

Large gatherings of people, including a great many strangers in the city, have witnessed the magnificent production of "The Shepherd King," at the Grand, and now that there are but three more performances, the rush will probably eclipse the accommodations.

The production is without a doubt the grandest and most impressive that has ever been witnessed in the south. It is a wonderful play, wonderfully enacted, and elaborately presented. The story is founded on the life of David, and the surrounding characters are of that era of the history of the world.

Wright Lorimer, in the leading role, is an actor of rare qualifications, and his company is a superb organization. There will be performances tonight and matinee and night Saturday.

"The Player Maid."

Florence Davis, who is to appear in "The Player Maid," at the Grand, Monday and Tuesday, is a native of Kentucky; has distinguished southern ancestry; try on both her father's and mother's side; and comes naturally to her predilection for fencing, horsemanship and other healthful sports. There are many actresses who have taken up fencing for the special purpose of utilizing the accomplishment in particular plays. Miss Davis, however, first took it up as a source of personal enjoyment and physical development. With her it partakes greatly of the nature of a hobby, for she has acquired a fine collection of foils, swords, masks, fence literature and other matter relating to the subject. She studied fencing under Professor Bertrand, of London, and Monterey, of Chicago, and is regarded as one of the most expert female fencers of this country.

Sophie Brandt is Coming.

Next Wednesday, matinee and night, at the Grand, Atlanta, will have the opportunity of seeing Sophie Brandt in the latest comic opera success, "A Madcap Princess." The book is by Harry B. Smith, and the music by Ludwig Englander, both prominent in their line. The engagement promises to be the most delightful one to lovers of genuine light opera.

The Norfolk Ledger, 13th instant, had the following to say in its review of Sophie Brandt in "A Madcap Princess": "Miss Brandt was a revelation in the role of the madcap princess, and surpassed her most enthusiastic admirers who had an opportunity to applaud her work in 'The Princess Chie' and other plays, as a comedienne she developed talent surprisingly clever and her work throughout the opera was admirable. Her singing, of course, was excellent, as she possesses one of the strongest and sweetest sopranos heard on the Norfolk stage. The support was excellent and the production complete, fifty-six people being counted at one time on the stage."

At the Bijou.

Grace Orr Meyers, and the others who have contributed so much happiness to the theater-goers, in the presentation of the useful comic opera, "The Fortune Teller," at the Bijou, are nearing the end of their visit to Atlanta. The opera and the company have become wonderfully popular, and will be ever welcome in the future. The beautiful Herbert must be "of that popular sort, and every principal is of good voice and the necessary dramatic ability. The comedy features are exceptionally good, and in a nut shell, there is nothing lacking to make the opera the sincere hit it really is.

There will be performances tonight and tomorrow night, and the usual Saturday matinee tomorrow afternoon. Von Tilzer and Woodward's musical comedy, entitled "A Jolly Baron," is the attraction that begins an engagement at the Bijou theater next Monday. Its star, Billy (single) Clifford, whose name is familiar to many Atlanta theater-goers, will be in the title role.

All Our Oriental Rugs Are Reduced

The interesting fact that the president of an insurance company has a $5,000 oriental Rug on the floor of his office is an inspiration. There was a time when these Rugs were almost unknown in France and England, except for the thrones of royal personages and the altars of great cathedral churches. It is said that Queen Eleanor of Castile in the thirteenth century was the first who used Rugs for domestic purposes. They are now so common that you see them in almost every office, and there is probably not a private residence in Atlanta, where they can afford the luxury, where you will not find an oriental carpet or rug. The finest Rugs are made in the provinces of Kurdistan, Khorassan, and Kerman. It is a noticeable fact that these Rugs are made by nomads of the desert without even the simplest machinery, the loom being simply a frame on which the warp is stretched. The woof consist of short threads woven into the warp with the fingers without a shuttle. When the row of the woof is thus completed a sort of comb is inserted into the warp and pressed or hammered against the loose row of woof until it is sufficiently tightened to the rest of the web. The pile is formed by merely clipping the ends of the woof until an even surface is obtained.

The weavers are usually young girls. They sit with the reverse side of the web toward them, so that they depend solely on their memory for the formation of the pattern. On closely examining the best Persian Rugs it will be seen that very frequently the patterns are irregular, a circumstance which of itself proves the Rug to be genuine.

Attempts are made from time to time to introduce western machinery in the manufacture of oriental Rugs, with the result that western taste is rapidly destroying the best class of oriental design, and is introducing harsh and discordant coloring in place of the glorious rich coloring which characterizes the earlier works of oriental weavers.

It is a remarkable fact that the color of an oriental Rug improves with age. Consequently every care should be taken to preserve a valuable Rug and so hand it down as an heirloom in the family.

The patterns of these Rugs are for the most part geometrical, although flowers are frequently introduced.

An oriental Rug with figures of lions, tigers, and birds must always be viewed with suspicion, because the Mohammedans object to the figures of animals and very few will allow a Rug of this design in a palace or a mosque. But a very large number are manufactured specially for the western trade. The Moslem prayer Rug is a common article of commerce and is sold in large quantities by the merchants of Constantinople. In their original purpose these rugs are used exclusively for prayer, and while you find them in our western parlors for domestic use, they are always reserved in Moslem countries for the devotions of the faithful. When on a journey the devout Moslem takes with him one of these carpets and unfolds it at the hour of prayer.

Felts, or as they are called in the East "namdas" are made in Persia. The material consists of all kinds of wool mixed together. The color is generally brown, but the surface on one side is ornamented with geometrical designs and inlaid in the numda.

The dari is a cotton carpet very common in India and is the usual carpet in an Anglo-Indian bungalow, spread over the common chittai or matting on the floor.

In order to supply the great demand of western markets they are now manufacturing all kinds of silken carpets in various parts of India, especially in the province of Bengal, where the silk worm abounds. These fabrics are of two kinds—those composed of pure silk and those with a cotton warp crossed by a woof of silk. The mixed fabrics are only used in Moslem countries, because the prophet strictly forbade the use of pure silk as the emblem of luxury.

Stock Market Escaped Without Serious Damage to Values.

Due to Sky-Rocket Advance in Tennessee Coal and Iron and Vigorous Upward Movement in Other Special Stocks.
Closed Strong.

New York, December 7.—As stock markets struggled against the severe straits in the money market today and escaped without serious damage to values. After the period of greatest weakness yesterday, there was a slight general recovery under the influence of the skyrocket advance in Tennessee Coal and vigorous upward movements in other leading stocks. Money on call was quoted at 28 per cent., but it fell above the previous maximum for the year, touched last month. Today's high rate, 26 per cent., was reached by the close of October, 1902. Losses at the extreme low level of the day were not so great as they had been in 1901, and also that they were quite uniform between 1 and 2 points. Where the losses were heaviest, however, they were confined to the greatest speculative activity in the market. The most popular shares were conspicuously exempt in the unfavorable effect of the very high rates.
